Meth Epidemic Solutions

Presentations

Program Description

Most of our nation and much of the world have suffered the severe consequences of a meth epidemic. The collateral damage includes destruction of families, property crime and identity theft, toxic pollution from meth labs, and drug endangered children who suffer severe neglect and abuse. Tragically, the meth epidemic is unnecessary. The purpose of this program is to increase awareness and recognition of meth addiction and meth labs, and their severe impact on many aspects of our society. The program also provides solutions to end the meth epidemic.

The specific content of the program is flexible, and is modified to suit the particular audience and the available time. Program topics can include: The two types of meth; history of meth; how meth works; three generations of meth labs; drug endangered children; treatment; drug courts; and recent legislative and international actions. The program includes a PowerPoint presentation with pictures, video clips, stories, and various display items.
